CAUTION LABELS INDUSTRIAL INSULATIONS PRODUCTS

We have had a verbal complaint from the Lindberg Engineering Company in Chicago through the JM salesman Larry Barrett regarding the use of caution labels on our high temperature insulation products. Since you have been acting as a clearing point for this project, we feel that you should be informed of this current situation. Lindberg products has called Asbestos & Magnesia Materials Company in Chicago, our local distributor, regarding the use of the caution labels on Superex cartons. Apparently Lindberg who is A & M's largest customer, has never been aware of the potential hazard of the continuous contact with the dust from this product and therefore has become exceedingly alarmed at the appearance of this caution label on our cartons. Apparently Lindbergs initial thought was to discontinue use of this product entirely. However, after additional consideration they are now in the process of evaluating silicated blocks which would reduce or eliminate the dust problem in their operation.

If further problems develop along this line we shall keep you informed of them.
