Crystalline Silica Content of J-M Products

This is a note merely to let you know that the information which you desire on the above is being obtained and that all the necessary samples have been gotten together and the work itself is coming along.

I do have to work this job in with some of our other projects and further the determination of free silica in some of the products of interest to you may not be a simple determination.

We do expect, however, to have information available within the next two months and will advise you accordingly.
