Subject: TALC LABELING

Your proposed timetable for labeling talc products subjects the Company to continuing possibilities of fines and other penalties for another 75 days.

I cannot conceive any circumstance which would require or justify a continuation of these obvious violations. With modest effort, you should be able to have gummed labels printed and affixed to every shipment by July 8th.

As Counsel for Johns-Manville Corporation I again advise you to promptly place the required label on every shipment of product containing free tremolite. Your continuing delays in complying with the law are not defensible.
