Toledo, Ohio.

Dear Mr. Belknap:

I had entirely forgotten until this moment that I promised to lend you my copies of the Court's charge in two "Silicosis" actions in the New Jersey Courts. However, I assume it is not too late for them to be of use to you and I am enclosing them herewith. In the case of Lynch v. Home Insulation Company the transcript covers the defendant's motion for non-suit and directed verdict and the Court's charge. In the Poppell v. Joseph Dixon Crucible Co. case the transcript covers only the Court's charge.

I believe I told you these were the only copies I have of these transcripts and I shall therefore have to request that you return them to me after they shall have served your purpose.

Mr. Sherrill has not yet returned from Baltimore where he was to present our proposed new licensing arrangement to the Standard Stone and Lime Company but on his return he or I may have something further to report to you on that matter.

Very truly yours,

Vandiver Brown
Attorney

Dear Sam:

I regret having to bring up a matter of considerable antiquity but one which is of some importance.

On June 21, 1933 I sent to you at your office in Toledo, copies of the Court's charge and certain other material in two silicosis actions involving the use of Rock Wool which had been brought in certain inferior New Jersey courts a few years prior to that date. One was entitled "Lynch vs. Home Insulation Company" and the other "Pogosil v. Joseph Dixon Crucible Co.". Copy of my letter of transmittal is enclosed herewith.

My file indicates that I wrote you on October 2nd, 1933, requesting that the copies be returned; however, I find no indication that the latter was answered and the data is not now in the file.

As you may wish to refer this request to your former law firm, I am enclosing both an additional copy of this letter and of the letter of June 21, 1933.

Very truly yours,

Vandiver Brown,
General Attorney.
