AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

First Affirmative Defense

This defendant denies that the Plaintiff sustained any injury as a result of contact or use of any product manufactured by this defendant.

Second Affirmative Defense

Further answering, and by way of affirmative defense, defendant says that the products which this defendant manufactured and sold were at all times reasonably fit and suitable for the purposes for which they were manufactured and sold and defendant denies that the same were in anywise defective for the use for which they were manufactured.

Third Affirmative Defense

If Plaintiff did sustain any injury as a result of the use of any product manufactured by this defendant, which is expressly denied, then such injury was sustained as a result of the occupation of the plaintiff, in that he had been engaged as an insulator or worker in the insulation field for a number of years, and at all times knew that he was working in dust laden air which contained asbestos dust, as well as other dust particles, part of which were created by his own owrk and the work of other insulators, and by the failure of his employer or the owner of the premises on which he was working to provide facilities for the elimination of dust laden air, and therefore, any such injury as he may have sustained was some occupational disease resulting from his long continued occupation as an insulator and not as a result of any isolated incident or contact with any product manufactured by this defendant. This defendant says that it is not legally liable or responsible for any occupational disease which was suffered or sustained by plaintiff in the course of his employments over a number of years; andfurther, this defendant denies that the plaintiff worked with products manufactured by this defendant.

Fourth Affirmative Defense

This defendant denies that any product or products which it manufactured and sold for heat insulation purposes in anywise caused or brought about any injury or illness, if any, to the plaintiff, and this defendant says that the physical conditions of which plaintiff complains was in nowise caused or brought about by any product manufactured or sold by this defendant, but such condition was due solely to disease and other causes or to the acts and omissions of third persons, and the acts of the plaintiff.

Fifth Affirmative Defense

Further answering herein and while denying that the plaintiff sustained any injury as a result of contact or use of any product manufactured by this defendant, if he did sustain injury or did sustain an occupational disease as a result of the use of any insulation product manufactured by this defendant, separately, or in conjunction with products manufactured by other defendants, then this defendant says that plaintiff was guilty of various acts, wrongs and omissions, each and all of which amounted to negligence in the performance of his work and occupation, which acting together or separately was a proximate cause of his injury. In this connection, this defendant would show that plaintiff failed to use and utilize any safety devices such as mask and respirators for breathing, that he failed to request the use of such masks and respirators; that he failed to request his employer to furnish blowers and other equipment to remove the dust laden air and he worked in dust laden air with full knowledge that he was inhaling such dust laden air; and he continued to work with insulation materials containing some asbestos after he knew, or in the exercise of ordinary care should have known, that it was affecting his health.

Sixth Affirmative Defense

This defendant says that if plaintiff sustained any injury as a result of the use of any material or materials manufactured by this defendant, which is denied, the danger, if any, arising from the continued use of such material or materials was open and obvious and was well known to the plaintiff or should have been known to him; but nevertheless, he continued to work as an insulator and continued to subject himself to air which was laden with insulation material.

In the alternative, if there was any danger and such was not open and obvious and apparent to plaintiff at all times, nevertheless, he knew at all times of the dangers involved with insulation materials some asbestos and in working in dust laden air where insulation materials were in use, and he continued to use and to work with such materials and under such conditions with such knowledge, and therefore, this defendant owed him no duty to warn him of any potential dangers involved, and he is therefore barred from any recovery under the theory of volenti non fit injuria.

Seventh Affirmative Defense

If Plaintiff did sustain any injury as the result of the use of any product manufactured by this defendant, which is denied, then such occurred more than two (2) years prior to the filing of this suit on May 27, 1969, and such cause of action for personal injury is barred by the two (2) years statute of limitations of the State of Texas.

Eighth Affirmative Defense

If Plaintiff did sustain any injury as the result of the use of any product manufactured by this defendant, which is denied, then such occurred more than four (4) years prior to the filing of this suit on May 27, 1969, and such cause of action for personal injury is barred by the four (4) year statute of limitations of the State of Texas.

Ninth Affirmative Defense

Further answering, this defendant says that plaintiff was an experienced insulation worker according to his allegations and knew at all times that he was working with asbestos and products containing asbestos, as well as other products, which were harmful to him; or in the alternative, if he did not know this, his employers at all times knew that they were working with insulation materials which contained some asbestos, and said employers had knowledge of the fact that particles of said products could enter the air when said product was cut or applied, and the employer likewise had knowledge that if blowers or fans were not used in the area, that their employees would be subject to the dust hazard and inhalation of dust; and further, it is common knowledge that if an individual works in an area where the air is laden with dust, that the individual will breath this dust into his nose and body system unless the employee uses some mask, respirator or some protective device, or unless the employer provides some means whereby the dust is removed from the air as a safety measure.

Tenth Affirmative Defense

This defendant denies the existence of any warranty on the part of this defendant and denies any fault or breach of warranty on the part of this defendant, but to the contrary, says that the insulation product or products manufactured by it were at all times reasonably fit and suitable for the purposes of insulation which was the purpose for which they were manufactured and sold, and the plaintiff's injury, if any, did not result from any defect in said product. Further, any and all dust conditions which resulted from use of the product were created during the application thereof at which time the product was cut or changed from the original form in which it was manufactured by this defendant, and the conditions under which the plaintiff worked were at all times prescribed by his employer or the owner of the premises where the plaintiff was employed. This defendant had no responsibility for the condition or conditions at the place of work where plaintiff was performing his work.

Eleventh Affirmative Defense

Further answering herein, and in the alternative, this defendant says that the plaintiff's alleged injuries and damages, if any, were caused solely, or in the alternative, were proximately caused by acts, wrongs, omissions and negligence of third parties, or a third party, for whose acts this defendant is in nowise liable or responsible; or in the alternative, if plaintiff sustained any injury from the use of any product, or from any breach of warranty, none of which are admitted, but denied, then such was the result of the fault or breach of warranty of third parties other than this defendant.

Twelfth Affirmative Defense

Further answering herein, and in the alternative, this defendant says that the plaintiff's claims to injury and damage, if any, were the result of an unavoidable accident.

Thirteenth Affirmative Defense

Further answering herein and in the alternative, this defendant would show that there is and was no legal liability on the part of this defendant, because of the fact that the alleged happenings in question were brought about or caused by transitory conditions arising in the course of the work which the plaintiff was doing, and ordinarily incident thereto; and plaintiff and his employers used their own manner, method and means of performing such work, and this defendant owed no duty with respect to such work, nor was there any relationship as between plaintiff and this defen- which created any duty on the part of this defendant as to the manner or method in which the work was done or the conditions under which the plaintiff performed such work.

As a further ground of relief and pleading in the alternative, this defendant says that if any judgment is entered herein jointly and severally against it and other defendants, that in such event this defendant is entitled to contribution against such other defendants in accordance with the provisions of Article 2212 of Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes of the State of Texas.

WHEREFORE, this defendant prays judgment of the Court that plaintiff take nothing against it and that it go hence and recover its costs; in the alternative, that it have judgment for contribution against the other defendants as set out above.
