Dear Sir:

Thank you very much for your note of January 7th.

Today we are sending the entire group of films to New York to Dr. McConnell for study and a complete report. This would be distinctly advantageous because they have the old films there and their men are receiving similar films from all over the country for an extensive study and comparison.

In sending the daily reports my thought was that it would be distinctly advantageous to have some general idea of the exact status of affairs immediately, and if there were any developments which called for immediate action such could be taken. From my own personal viewpoint I thought it would be advantageous to put down my own opinion in writing so that if I am mis-interpreting or mis-construing any of the findings I could correct them after we receive a complete and comprehensive report from Dr. McConnell. I felt that if I did not put down some definite opinion I would lose an opportunity to increase my knowledge and improve my interpretation, especially so when the films are going to those who specialize in this one particular branch of x-ray interpretation.

I shall be very anxious to hear what the comparative study reveals. My own impression at the moment is that in the majority of instances there has been no change. A few seem to be improved; and there are several whose films reveal marked changes.

The privilege of conducting this survey has been greatly appreciated, as has been the excellent cooperation of your personnel in bringing these men quite punctually for examination.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Very truly yours,

Paul O. Snoke, M. D.
