Call made on RG-244 prospect in coatings.

Introduced Mike to the CALIDRIA 244 story in coatings, as it was a cold call and an unknown to him. After listening attentively Mike advised that 90% of the products they produce are trade sales paints. They do make a few maintenance enamels, but they are of the hi gloss type. They have not used asbestos or Brands X and Y in the past, but do use about 500 lbs of Bentone 38 every six months in the hi gloss enamels. Left Mike with our 244 brochure in the event a non gloss requirement for a thixotrope comes up in the future. As usual the toxicology issue came up and had to be discussed. I wonder why it is that paint companies who have never used asbestos and only know what they read and hear all seem to presume that its usage has been prohibited.
