Subject Montello
New Supervisbestos/Univis bags

Dear John:

Montello is sending to your attention today the camera ready artwork for the new Supervisbestos and Univis bags which have been approved by both our legal and advertising people. The artwork shows four sides and a front shot but no back shot. If we are presently showing the American and Japanese warnings on the back of the bags now in use for Supervisbestos we should also include it on the new bags for both Supervisbestos and Univis.

In the case of Supervisbestos it looks like the bag size would remain the same with only the design change but in the case of Univis it appears as if a smaller bag will be needed or one sized for 50 lbs. that would maintain its integrity as it moves through the distribution system to the actual user.

We should proceed to place the artwork in the hands of our bag supplier requesting that he move along the lines he needs to right up to the point of being able to print bags upon request. As we now know Montello has slightly altered their approach on the marketing of Supervisbestos and Univis and will carry a dual line. We presently have about 7500 empty bags and enough finished stock on hand to supply their Supervisbestos requirements for the next 8-12 weeks. Hopefully the indemnification agreement will be revised and approved by both parties by that time and the present Supervisbestos packaging supply and inventory will be about used up and we can place an order with our bag supplier for the new Supervisbestos and Univis bags.

I will watch our finished goods and empty bag position on Supervisbestos and I would appreciate your keeping me advised of the status of the artwork and how long it will take our bag supplier to print and deliver an order once he is all set up. A comparison of the prices for the old and new Supervisbestos bags and the new Univis bags would also be appreciated. Thank you.

Very truly yours,

Jack Walsh
