REPORT OF THE GENERAL PRESIDENT

Elmhurst, L. I., June 30, 1939.

To the Officers and Membership, Affiliated Locals,

Greetings:

The activities of your President during the past quarter began at Washington, D. C., with attendance at a meeting of the General Presidents of the Building Trades.

Then to New York City and return to the General Office on business of executive nature.

Later at Washington came a conference held with officers of the Sheet Metal Workers' International Association where Secretary-Treasurer Sickles and your President arrived at a settlement on "Duct Lining" as printed in our April Journal issue.

Then to Wilkes-Barre and a meeting of Local No. 38. This trip gave your President an opportunity to visit Brother Zeigler just before he passed on. "Guy" did his full share as a pioneer of our craft in the unionizing of the anthracite region.

The next jump was to Chicago and conference with Vice President Mulligan.

Then to Detroit, a conference with Business Agent Detlefs and a meeting with the Employers' and Agreement Committee, followed by a meeting of Local No. 25.

Next stop was Buffalo, N. Y., and a conference with Business Agent Rice of Local No. 4.

Then to Charlotte, N. C., and a conference with Mr. Guy M. Beaty and his signing the Joint Trade Agreement with Local No. 61. This should add nine new members to the roster of the Local's membership (now 37) and give Charlotte and southern territory 100 per cent Union competition. Later came a meeting of the Charlotte Employers' and the Trade Agreement Committee of the Local.

Next came Atlanta, Ga., and conference with Business Agent Hoffman and meeting of Local No. 48.

The next stop was Birmingham, Ala., and conference with President C. S. Durban and Business Agent Howell and later a meeting of Local No. 78 at which time, for the best interests of our craft, your President placed the Local under International Supervision with Business Agent Howell as Supervisor.

Then to Washington and the General Office.

The next trip was to New Haven, Conn., where, in the Grand Ballroom of the Taft Hotel, Secretary-Treasurer Sickles was the guest of honor at a Testimonial Dinner Dance tendered him by his Home Local No. 33. On this occasion the members of the General Executive Board and your President listened with pleasure and satisfaction to the compliments of character and executive ability paid him by State, County, and City Labor and Civic leaders, including Mayor John W. Murphy.

The highlight of the evening came when Business Agent Gaspic in the name of the Connecticut membership presented our Secretary with a diamond ring and his wife with a bracelet and clip.

Then to New York City where the General Executive Board held its annual session, minutes of which appear in this Journal issue.

Next came Philadelphia and a conference with Business Agent Hunter, followed by shop visit.

At this writing our regular shop work shows but little improvement with some half-dozen of our Locals operating full strength by direct employment for national operators specializing in refinery work.

Fraternally,

Joseph A. Mullaney

A. F. OF L. URGES PRIVATE INVESTMENT TO PROVIDE JOBS

Declaring that business conditions, coupled with the continuance of a large unemployed army, calls for a "New Objective," the American Federation of Labor, in a Survey, stresses the importance of ending government spending to stimulate business recovery and substitute therefor a large expansion of private industry, financed by investors. The Survey points out that:

"The American nation needs a vigorous program on all fronts to expand production by private industry. Such a program is urgent; if we want to replace government spending by private investment, put the unemployed to work in private industry instead of WPA and prevent a business recession in 1940, accounting must be taken at once.

"It will take time and coordinated effort to change from government spending to private initiative; we have barely enough time to accomplish it before the present government spending program loses its force. It is disheartening, therefore, to see so little recognition of this urgency in circles where action can be taken."

Stressing the "controls and agencies for orderly conduct of business in a democracy in the interest of all citizens" set up during the past six years, the Survey emphasizes that "the time is now ripe for a national effort to reach the highest production levels in history."

Answering its own question: "What are the next steps to expand production?" the Survey stresses that "government, business, farmers and labor" must work together through "regular channels," and that the problem of getting bank deposits into production must be solved.

To replace government spending with private investment, the Survey outlines the following four-point program:

1. An "adequate" nation-wide, low-cost housing program, involving "some Federal and local government aid."
2. "Congressional action," as suggested in the wage parleys last Fall to enable railroads to buy "much needed new equipment."
3. General retooling and re-equipment of industrial plants, "much of which would automatically follow expansion."
4. Purchase of new equipment by utilities and "Federal help" to extend power lines into new areas.

As a prerequisite to such a program, "business needs the assistance of legislation and planning and some programs will require financial aid from

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY-TREASURER

Washington, D. C., June 30, 1939.

Union Building Program

Cincinnati is setting a fine example for all other cities in America. It has a building program, known as the Robal Housing Project, which is 100 per cent union throughout. Every worker is a member of the Building Trades Council of Cincinnati and every piece of material used in the well-constructed and unique enterprise is union-made.

The Robal Housing Project was started to meet the demand for union-built homes. The residence contractors who employed both union and non-union tradesmen went into bankruptcy in 1931 when home buying was at a standstill. In 1935 when home building started again, union men would not take jobs because the wages paid to non-union workers were much lower than union rates. The non-union built homes were picketed. Union workers were successful in preventing the purchases of unfair dwellings but failed in their organization drive because no homes were being built under union conditions. They were continually confronted by prospective home purchasers with the question, "Where can I buy a union-built home?"

To meet this demand for "union-made" homes, J. J. Hurst, President of the Central Labor Council, and Fred Hock, Business Representative of the Building Trades Council of Cincinnati, requested of the Building Trades Council authority to promote the building of union-built homes by union workers themselves. To these two men great credit should be given for the entire project.

Harry Price, an outstanding engineer and architect, who had built some of the finest homes in Cincinnati and also had assisted in the Government housing program was employed as consultant. He entered into the spirit of this unique enterprise with great enthusiasm; prepared sketches of plans; and drew up specifications.

Many Building Trades Unionists loaned money and desirable sites were selected in good sub-divisions. Three homes are almost completed and are continually on display so prospective purchasers can see the workmanship and material that go into them.

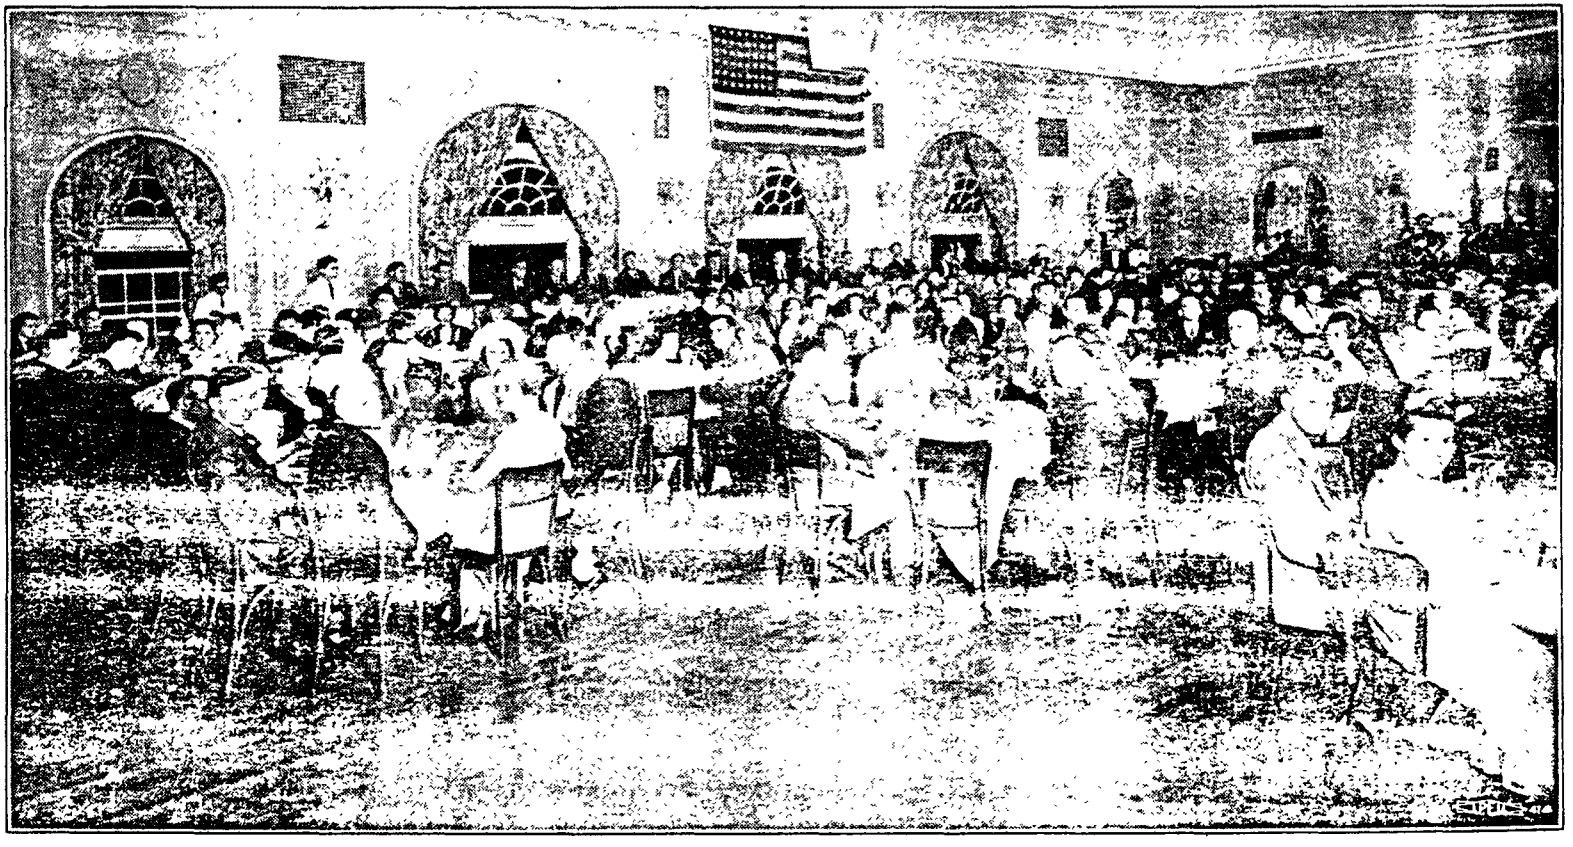

The homes will sell for about $7,000 and are built with materials and equipment that can be found in homes that cost $20,000 and more. The public can judge for itself the style, construction, copper piping, plumbing as well as the improved methods of heating, insulation and wiring.

The plan, according to Jack Hurst, is not a socialistic move because all work is sublet to union contractors. It is a cooperative plan through which union employers and union workers combine to build homes, "sold at cost" for those who desire skilled workmanship and the highest quality of materials. It has established a precedent in the real estate circles of Cincinnati that has aroused considerable speculation but the union-built homes will be no gamble for those who buy them.

Editor, The Asbestos Worker,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother:

On June 3, 1939, Local No. 33, Connecticut, honored International Secretary-Treasurer Sickles with a Testimonial Dinner Dance held in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Taft, New Haven, Conn.

This Dinner Dance was attended by the Local No. 33 members and their wives, a goodly number from all our New England Local Unions and representative Committees from Local No. 12, New York City, Local No. 91, White Plains, N. Y., Local No. 24, Washington, D. C., and Local No. 88, Richmond, Va.

Seated on the dais were, in addition to the General Executive Board members, G. W. Lemmerman, representing the Connecticut Insulating Contractors Association; Francis P. Fenton, Director of Organization, A. F. of L.; John J. Egan, Secretary Connecticut State Federation of Labor; Hon. John W. Murphy, Mayor of the City of New Haven (formerly Business Agent, Cigar Makers); John J. McCurry, representing International Electrical Workers; John J. Murphy, A. F. of L. Organizer for the New England States; President George Rider, Local No. 12; Thomas (Pop) Curry, former Business Agent Local No. 12; President Louis Andrews and Business Agent John A. Gaspic, of Local No. 33.

Toastmaster of the evening was Brother Henry J. Tierney who served as Business Agent for the Electrical Workers at the same time and worked together with Secretary-Treasurer Sickles while he was employed in the capacity of Business Agent for Local No. 33.

Short addresses were made, all of which attested to the qualifications, character, etc., of the guest of honor, by International President Mullaney, Mayor John W. Murphy, Francis P. Fenton, representing President William Green, Secretary-Treasurer John J. Egan, and concluded by address of Business Agent Gaspic of our Local No. 33, at the conclusion of which he presented the guest of honor with a beautiful diamond ring in the name of the Local No. 33 membership, and at the same time presented to Mrs. Sickles a bracelet and clip.

Secretary-Treasurer Sickles then accepted the ring and assured those in attendance that he would appreciate this gift throughout the remainder of his natural life and also expressed his appreciation and thanks to his many friends in Connecticut whose confidence and support through the years made possible his advancement to the position he now holds as Secretary-Treasurer of our International Association.

Numerous telegrams from the many friends and associates of Secretary-Treasurer Sickles, whose absence from this Testimonial was unavoidable due to illness or other extenuating circumstances were received including a lengthy telegram from Reverend Patrick Maloney, O. F. M., our International Chaplain, who is at present confined to St. Mary's Hospital, Tucson, Ariz.; Reverend Nelson Cruikshank, formerly of New Haven, and now associated with the Federal Government at the Nation's Capital; Mr. Hall, of the Reid-Hayden Company; H. A. Tomlinson, of the Tomlinson Asbestos Company; International Vice President Hoff, confined to the Lawrence Memorial Hospital in Medford, Mass.; and I. M. Ornburn, Secretary of the Label Trades Department, A. F. of L.

At the conclusion of the speaking, which followed the dinner and entertainment arranged by the Committee, the waiters hastily removed the chairs and all hands joined in and danced to the music of the Orchestra, with both the Orchestra and dancers partial to the "Beer Barrel Polka."

I wish to express the appreciation of the Committee on Arrangements for the cooperation and assistance so generously afforded us in our efforts to assure all participating a pleasant evening.

The Committee wishes also to thank the International Board members and all other Civic and Labor leaders who accepted the invitation and joined with us on this occasion.

Fraternally yours,

JOHN BANNON, Chairman,
Committee on Arrangements.

Ingrate Lewis

(From New York Herald Tribune)

Mr. John L. Lewis has now eliminated even the very slim prospect which had existed since the coal settlement that peace negotiations between the two labor factions would be resumed. Peace, he says, is "impossible," giving as his main reason the personality of A. F. of L. leadership. Let us correct him by saying that it is impossible because of the personality of John L. Lewis and that his very reasons plus his record prove it.

A few weeks ago Mr. Matthew Woll, one of the A. F. of L. leaders cited in Lewis's indictment, made public a most revealing document. It was a report by the late Charles P. Howard, secretary of the Committee for Industrial Organization, on the labor peace parleys in the fall of 1937 and designed for the guidance of the C. I. O. delegation. In it Mr. Howard listed thirty-four great labor groups which, he said, the A. F. of L. was ready to welcome to its fold on an industrial basis. Included were most of those categories of workers which have been or are now the mainstay of the Lewis organization—the mine workers, the automobile workers, the garment workers, the steel workers, the rubber workers, the glass workers, and so on. This memorandum clearly suggests that the conferees had entirely overcome the original industrial-craft union issue, leaving for settlement only those individual adjustments between rival organizations made necessary by the growth of dual unionism. Yet Lewis snorted at the progress made and kicked the whole proceeding out of the window against the advice and wishes of some of his negotiators. Today he is simply repeating the performance with no more ground for his action than he had then. "The real reason is that he does not want peace because peace would automatically end his autocratic control over a minority group in organized labor." So says Mr. William Green, and one fears he is right.

How does the President feel about this latest manifestation of his protege's obduracy? It was the President who personally instituted the negotiations now definitely broken off. At the time the labor feud and what it was doing to industry, to the labor movement and last, but not least, to his political fortunes seemed his main concern. In the interval he has helped Lewis to a triumph over the Appalachian coal operators and, incidentally, the A. F. of L. Did he expect that Lewis, out of gratitude, would help him by helping to heal the labor breach? If so, his disappointment must be keener even than that of the rest of the country, including labor. For Lewis has done him about as poor a turn as one man can do another. Gone are his hopes of labor unity before the Presidential primaries begin next January, and greatly increased is the likelihood that the New Deal in the fall will meet in the nation the same type of defeat which it suffered last fall in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan.

U. S. H. A. Costs Below Private Costs

Since its inception the United States Authority has been under fire from various and diverse angles.

Chief of these is that the costs of U. S. H. A. building are excessive as compared to the costs of housing constructed under private auspices and privately financed, and that rents will be too high to keep those whom the law under which the U. S. H. A. operates is intended to benefit.

Speaking before the Connecticut Conference on Housing and Health, Administrator Nathan Straus met the charges squarely.

"Today," said Mr. Straus after reviewing the health costs of slums, "the time for mere talk has passed. The means whereby we can really improve the towns in which we live and can amend the dwellings of the poor are within our reach. The United States Housing Act provides a firm basis for the solution of this ancient problem. But, people are always asking whether this plan will really solve the problem? Will the rents really be low enough? Will the construction costs be low enough? Will the cost to the taxpayer be low enough?

"First, will the rents be low enough? They will be within the reach of families earning from about $400 to $1,100 a year. In many cities rents, excluding the cost of utilities, will be as low as $6 and $7 a month for an entire four-room dwelling. In some of the larger northern cities, rents may hit a high of $16 or $18 a month.

"Rents in U. S. H.-aided projects will always be low. Before a loan and annual contribution contract is submitted to the President for approval, the United States Housing Authority must have assurances that the rents in the new projects will be within the means of the families who need rehousing most.

"Second, will construction costs be low? There is not enough time for me to go into the whole matter of construction costs. I will confine my remarks, therefore, to a comparison between the costs under the U. S. H. A. program and the costs of private residential construction.

"The Bureau of Labor Statistics collects and makes public building permit figures on net construction cost of residential building. In certain cities where the U. S. H. A. program is now under way the figures for private construction made public by the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed an average cost of about $3,800 per dwelling.

"In the same cities the figure for projects under the U. S. H. A. program was approximately $1,000 less.

"What does this mean? It means that scientific large-scale planning, building in accordance with local conditions, spirited competition for contracts and the cooperation of the building trades unions—all these are producing amazing results. It means that the local housing authorities are blazing the road which private enterprise is bound to follow.

"Private builders profiting from their experience in building the public housing for local housing authorities, will be able to build more economically for private enterprise. Expansion in private building and reduced costs in private building have invariably followed in the wake of public housing programs abroad. We may expect the same result here.

"Third, what is the cost to the taxpayer?

"The loans which the U. S. H. A. makes to localities for financing the capital development of projects are absolutely returnable—every dollar—with interest. They do not cost the public a penny, but in fact yield a small interest profit.

"The U. S. H. A. annual contributions, made to help bridge the gap between the rents which decent housing costs and the rents which the lowest income groups can afford to pay, are the only cost to the Federal Government. Under the present act, these subsidies cannot exceed $28,000,000 per year; and $45,000,000 additional is proposed under the Wagner-Steagall Bill. And these are gross costs.

MINUTES OF MEETING OF CALIFORNIA STATE CONFERENCE OF ASBESTOS WORKERS

Los Angeles, Calif., June 24, 1939.

Meeting called to order by Chairman Brown at 10 A. M. Affiliated locals were represented by the following delegates: W. R. Michener and J. J. Christian, of Local No. 5, Los Angeles; Don McIntosh and J. D. Brown, of Local No. 16, San Francisco; Perry Games, of Local No. 23, Sacramento; Oran Leib, of Local No. 70, Vallejo. Minutes of the meeting held March 10, were read and approved. Financial statement was read and approved.

Delegate Michener, reporting for Local No. 5, stated that work had taken an uptrend in the recent past but was now slackening down a little with the future looking just fair; that he had devoted considerable time and effort in the protection for the craft of the application of cork insulation coming under our jurisdiction and that because of his persistence at the job and the preliminary work through the Conference, he had met with success. Expressed appreciation be a matter of record for sixteen International Representatives in joint organizing work done in San Joaquin Valley.

Delegate Brown reported for Local No. 16 that work had been very quiet for the last three months with much of the membership idle. The contemplated work had not started as yet as a result of Municipal activities and probably would be sometime before things took on a healthier aspect.

Delegate Games for Local No. 23 stated things were fair in his locality and that throughout the Sacramento Valley, home insulation was coming more into use.

Delegate Leib, for Local No. 70 reported work in the Navy Yard going along as usual.

The delegates confirmed the territorial confines of their respective locals by map and instructed the Secretary to forward copies of same to the General President and International Secretary-Treasurer for reference.

The Conference devoted its remaining time to a mutual understanding of its member affiliates procedure in signing or negotiating indenture agreements for all apprentices in compliance with the Shelley-Maloney Apprentice Labor Standards Act of 1939 as signed by Governor Olson, May 23, 1939. The content of the law, both in spirit and letter, presumes an advance in training method and control far beyond anything heretofore undertaken. Job training, related and technical instruction at a trade school, monthly report, joint committee approval before advance and absolute control over apprentices in an interchange of shop hiring, together with many other features of the law provide for all future mechanics to be of a degree of excellence so as to reflect honor upon the craft and the Conference will certainly contribute much toward recommendations for local committee approval.

San Francisco was designated as the next Conference meeting place by unanimous vote.

Respectfully submitted,

J. J. CHRISTIAN,
Secretary.

U. S. H. A. Costs Below Private Costs

"Due to the sizable profit on the loan transactions, the net annual cost to the Federal Government is only about $18,760,000 under the present program, and would be only about $53,000,000 under the present and expanded program.

"Sometimes I am challenged, however, by those who want to know the cost of doing the whole job of rehousing America. I am no prophet as to what the future may bring, in the way of better incomes or technological improvements in the building industry.

"But even under present costs, if we did enough rehousing in 15 or 20 years to wipe out the slums completely, both urban and rural, what would it cost? There would be a slowly increasing annual cost to the Federal Government, which at its very peak would be only about the size of our present Federal annual subsidies to agriculture alone, and only a fraction of our present Federal expenditures for armaments or for direct relief.

"I am ready to compare housing costs with any other costs; and to defend the proposition that public housing is an extraordinarily economical, prudent and productive type of investment in business and social welfare.

"These, then, are my answers to the three questions which people so often ask me. Rents are low. Construction costs are low. The benefits to the taxpayer are enormous."
