VICIOUS LABOR-HATERS GOT THEIR ANSWER

Every Government Agency Dealing With Production Gives Thunderous Refutation of attacks on Nation's Workers

By REUBEN LEVIN

Ever since the defense program started and continuing through the war, labor has been the victim of one of the most vicious propaganda campaigns in American history.

Union haters have blanketed the nation with false and exaggerated charges that workers have held up production by strikes, slowdowns, short hours, and other abuses. In short, labor has been pictured in the press and on the radio as the "No. 1 Villain" of the land.

Significant reports put out during the past month by all of the leading civilian and war agencies of the Government demonstrate beyond a doubt that the intensive propaganda drive against unions was based on fakery.

These reports were issued by the War Production Board, Army and Navy chiefs, National War Labor Board, Department of Labor and other agencies, and they demolish completely the falsehoods spread about labor.

Both Secretary of the Navy Knox and Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson declared that labor has met every call for increased production during the past year.

"The response of labor has been magnificent," Knox said. "Free American labor may well be proud of the production records established during the year in our shipyards, aircraft factories, ordnance plants and other industries. The United States Navy congratulates the men and women of American industry who have done a remarkable job for the armed services."

Patterson added that the great performance of American fighting equipment on war fronts abroad proves that the workers have "met every challenge."

"Production and still more production has been and is the first goal of our workers, and they are also in the forefront of every phase of the war program," Patterson said. "American labor has demonstrated that it has the courage and spirit which inspire our fighting men and the determination that will see the conflict through to victory."

Even greater praise came from the War Production Board, which declared that "America's trade unions marked the first year of the war with some of the most impressive production records in the history of free labor.

"Organized workingmen in the U. S. in a single year have given a powerful answer to the Axis assault on freedom throughout the world," the board's account pointed out. "That answer, a thunderous 400 per cent increase in industrial production, is being heard today in the ports and deserts of Africa and Pacific waters.

"But no American worker thinks his job is done. The new hope that swept the country as the first year of the war ended meant a new vow to be taken. Today across the nation, unions raise their production goals, and the task of war workers goes on at full speed, not to slacken until the job is done."

Railroad workers were paid a particularly glowing tribute in the WPB report for the marvelous manner in which they have kept the old "Iron Horse" rolling.

"Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor found America's 1,300,000 union men in the railroads ready to carry the nation's second line of offense — the transportation line," the board said.

"In the first six months of 1942, railroad workers carried as much as they did in the first 15 months of the last war. In the first seven weeks following the outbreak of the war, U. S. railroad workers moved 600,000 troops across the country, in addition to huge shipments of planes, tanks, guns and munitions.

"The great increase in civilian traffic was also handled smoothly, indicating that rail workers had prepared themselves for emergency necessities long before Pearl Harbor."

Railroad unions also showed fine leadership, the board declared, in a nation wide drive to salvage scrap steel and unused trackage on the carriers; in a campaign to induce all workers to invest in war bonds, and in many other phases of the war program.

"The work that the railroad workers have done has won national acclaim and there is confidence everywhere," the board added, "that the trains will keep rolling speedily across this continent to link coal mines, steel mills, and munitions factories into one big war plant."

Wage Adjustment Board Reorganized

The Wage Adjustment Board previously authorized to handle wage adjustment cases affecting Federal construction only has been reorganized to include jurisdiction and authority over wage rates on private construction. As a consequence, Order No. 101 has been amended by the Secretary of Labor in Compliance with the request of the National War Labor Board to read as follows:

"On May 22, 1942, the Government agencies in charge of building and construction work essential to the successful prosecution of the war and the Building and Construction Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor agreed to stabilize wage rates for the duration of the war at the level in effect on July 1, 1942: a Wage Adjustment Board would be created, it was agreed, to make, pursuant to specified standards, necessary wage adjustments on Federal construction projects. The President of the United States by a memorandum dated May 14, 1942, directed the Secretary of Labor to create the Wage Adjustment Board and give to it such service and assistance as it might require.

Therefore, to accomplish the purpose of the Act of March 3, 1931, as amended by the Act of August 30, 1935, and of section 1 (a) of the Act of January 30, 1942 (Public No. 421, 77th Congress) and to provide the machinery for the Wage Stabilization Agreement of the international and national labor organizations in the Building and Construction Industry, the Secretary of Labor on May 29, 1942, established the Wage Adjustment Board for the Building and Construction Industry. The jurisdiction of this Board has been limited to construction work done for or financed by the United States. In order to coordinate the administration of this program with the stabilization of wages and the maintenance of harmonious industrial relations on private construction work, the National War Labor Board has requested the Secretary of Labor to amend Administrative Order No. 101 and to reconstitute the Wage Adjustment Board for the Building and Construction Industry so that it may administer the duties and functions delegated to it by the National War Labor Board. To accomplish this purpose, therefore, it hereby ordered:

1. The Wage Adjustment Board for the Building and Construction Industry, hereafter called the Board, is established in the United States Department of Labor. The Board shall consist of nine members, three representing labor, three representing industry, and three, including the chairman, representing the public. In the absence of any member of the Board, an alternate member may serve in his place. Six members of the Board, including not less than two members from each of the groups represented on the Board, shall constitute a quorum.

2. The Board shall have the power to investigate and to act upon adjustments of wage rates under the Wage Stabilization Agreement of May 22, 1942. It shall consider and act upon requests for such wage adjustments when presented by local labor organizations with the approval of the international or national labor organization and submitted through and approved by the Building and Construction Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, and it shall also consider and act upon requests for wage adjustments when presented by employers, Government contracting agencies, or any group of workers

President Green's Reply to Commander Atherton

First of all may I extend to Commander Atherton in your name and in your behalf, our sincere thanks for his visit to this Sixty-third Convention of the American Federation of Labor and for the address which he delivered. He was right in his conclusions when he stated that we welcome a frank discussion of all subjects and all questions affecting the American way of life and affecting our economic, social and industrial interests. In fact, the American Federation of Labor conventions are open forums of discussion. We speak with frankness. We act in the same way. We face all issues courageously. We proclaim our virtues and we admit our faults.

It appears to me that I can with perfect propriety point out to the Commander that those who seek perfection in an imperfect world are doomed to disappointment, but he who follows the pathway of logic and reason, looking above and beyond the inconsequential faults of a small minority, will realize that after all we are making a fine record in a most imperfect world.

The American Federation of Labor did not hesitate or wait a moment. Immediately after receiving over the radio, through the press and otherwise, information that the Japanese had treacherously attacked America at Pearl Harbor we stepped out and acted at once. A conference of the representatives of this great movement was assembled to meet in the city of Washington. The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor met at the same time and there, after solemnly, seriously and carefully considering the whole situation, we announced our pledge to the President of the United States of cooperation and support. That came from the honest hearts, frank consciences of those men, representing as they did the heart and conscience of American labor. And then in conformity with the program there developed, we pledged to the President of the United States a no-strike policy for the duration of this cruel war. That was made voluntarily, and you must understand the real value of the use of the strike weapon in order to understand the pledge that American labor made to the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States. In other words, the mobilization of our economic strength and its use, after all, is the last resort, the protection of labor, the means that it uses to lift its standard of life and living and to protect its own interests. It is the weapon it uses in defense of its interests, and when it agreed to place that behind the door and leave it there until the war was over it honestly pledged itself to support the Government to the bitter end.

Now, Mr. Commander, what has been the record! Examine it, will you please. The President of the United States, who keeps the record and studies it carefully day by day and month by month has spoken to us in a convincing and eloquent way and said, "Men, you have kept that pledge 99.9 percent in the United States of America."

And that pledge was kept by imperfect men. I maintain that it is an amazing record made good in an imperfect world.

We hold business management and those connected with business, Mr. Commander, in high regard. We feel that business as a whole has made a good record during the war—and in referring to business I mean the owners and managers of industry. We do not denounce industry as a whole at any time because of the sins committed by some manager or some directors of a corporation or the owners of some industry or a minority of industry. Consequently, we do not denounce industry as a whole because some steel corporation in America supplied our Government during this emergency with defective armorplate.

Nor do we denounce industry as a whole because some wire corporation supplied the Government with inferior wire. Nor do we denounce industry as a whole because some greedy employers of labor have sought to make profits that are unreasonable out of this war emergency. We say, "You have sinned against the Government," but industry as a whole does not approve of it and we hold them in high regard.

Is this a world without sin? Do the members of the Church always live up to the high standards set for them? Do the fraternal organizations maintain their standards of righteousness always? Do you find perfection in family life, the most sacred organization in America? I will venture to say that there are sinners in the American Legion.

The American Federation of Labor has never officially ordered or approved a strike of one, five, or ten men, or a hundred men since the dastardly attack was made upon us at Pearl Harbor. We have kept the faith and we are keeping the faith. We are producing the planes, the guns, the tanks, the ships, the war material so necessary in order that our brave men on the battlefields of Africa, in the Southern Pacific, in Italy, and wherever the war is being fought may be adequately supplied.

And, Mr. Commander, it might be of interest to tell you that since Pearl Harbor—since Pearl Harbor—while the soldiers of production represented here in this convention have been giving their skill, their lives, their training, their genius, and their American service in the production of materials in order to make this war a success, 80,000 of them have been killed and we have buried them, many of them in unknown graves. Seven million have been injured. Does that mean that we have measured up, or have we not? I have repeatedly referred to that fact—we buried them —80,000—killed.—killed while serving as soldiers of production in the mills, the mines and the factories of these United States. Does that count for anything or does it mean anything? No workers in the world have ever made such a record as American workers have made in the United States of America since Pearl Harbor.

I ask you, Mr. Commander, to look high, look above the petty things, look above the human imperfections, the incidental things of life, and behold portrayed like the new day's sun before your eyes the virtues of American workers. They are the best in the entire world. We are proud of them. They have done wonders and they will do more.

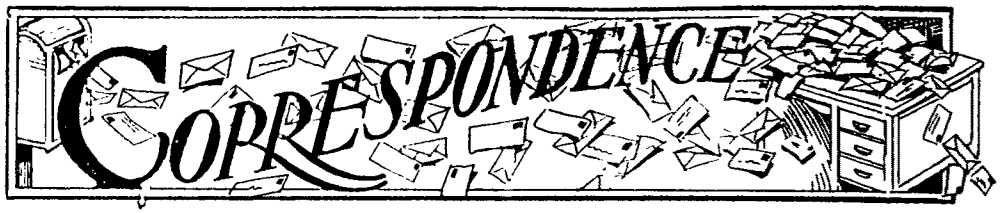

Now, may I say that we are in accord with many of the objectives you outlined here this morning—the protection of the children, the return of those who have temporarily been permitted to leave the schoolrooms and the homes to work in the mills and the factories. We have supported the regimentation of workers during this war in a very large way, because the winning of the war stands over and above every other consideration. But we intend to work with all like-minded people in bringing about a reconversion and a readjustment when the war ends. The children must go back to the homes and to the schools. The wife and the mother must take her place in the home as a wife and mother. We are opposed to the exploitation of women workers and children during normal times. We will stand with you in carrying out that program.

Then, Mr. Commander, there are 2,000,000 members of the American Federation of Labor in the armed services of the nation. We have planned and are planning for their return, as well as for the return of others who are serving on the battlefields. It is our firm determination to see that the seniority rights of all these members of our great union are protected when they come back to America, and if necessary we will compel employers to give them their places back where they were before they went away.

Then we shall serve in a like capac-

Chicago, Ill., October 2, 1943.
Editor, The Asbestos Worker,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother:

Just a few lines for the Journal to let our general membership know that we are alive and kicking.

At this writing Local No. 17 has 35 of its membership in the uniform of Uncle Sam.

When they enter the Service each member receives going-away present of $20.00 and $10.00 monthly thereafter. This means that to date Local No. 17 has paid out the sum of $6,000.00.

These members have Honorable Withdrawal Cards and are entitled to the Local No. 17 Mortuary Fund payment of $1,500.00 and in addition $500.00 from a fund of $20,000.00 recently established by the Insulating Contractors of Chicago that applies to our entire membership.

We are still buying War Bonds and to date our Local Union has invested $30,000.00 in cash in them.

Local No. 17 has a Mortuary Fund of $15,000.00 and $16,000.00 on deposit.

This is quite a different financial story from the one of twenty years ago when Vice-President Mulligan took the helm as Business Agent when our Local Union was bankrupt and had trouble meeting its mortuary payments of $150.00.

We were pleased to hear that our Brother member, Philip Kenneally, stationed at Camp Devens, had a chance to drop in at the Boston Convention, have dinner with President Mullaney, Vice-President Mulligan and yourself. We are proud of Brother Kenneally. He is a former Golden Gloves Champion in the Lightweight Class and we believe him to be the only Asbestos Worker to lay down his trowel and become a dramatic actor, which he was when called to the Colors.

For the benefit of those who have not already heard the sad news, we regret to inform them that our Chaplain, the Reverend Patrick Maloney, has passed away. Father Pat, as he was affectionately known to the City of Chicago, was buried from St. Peter's Church and his funeral proved to be the largest that ever left its gates. It was attended by the leaders of Religious, Civic, Labor, Business and Political Organizations of the City, headed by Mayor Kelly. Bishop Sheil officiated and Bishop O'Hara flew in from New York City to attend the services, which found two hundred Priests on the altar and one hundred Nuns in attendance.

Father Pat, who was stationed at Camp Custer as Chaplain, was accorded a military funeral due his rank as Lieutenant and left this world as he entered it—without a penny.

Vice-President Mulligan, Father Pat's closest personal friend, was a pallbearer as was President Durkin of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steam Fitters. President Mullaney, who was Chairman of the Resolutions Committee of the New York State Federation of Labor Convention, then in session at Buffalo, New York, was prevented from attending the funeral.

Local No. 17 will in respect to the memory of its deceased Chaplain, Father Pat. place a Memorial in the new Church of St. Peter when it is completed.

Fraternally yours,

WILLIAM J. WILSON,
Secretary, Local No. 17.

WE MUST FACE IT

Has organized labor reached the crossroads, or is this just a transitory period which now faces the workers of our country?

Will organized labor lose out in this transition process?

As we understand it, the fundamental reason for the organization of labor was the necessity of banding together in craft groups for the protection and improvement of wages and working conditions. Later on the belief that "In unity there is strength" led to the federation of craft groups under the banner of the American Federation of Labor.

With the experience many have had in the trade union movement, it is quite evident that, even if this is only a transition, organized labor, for its own protection, should be on the job, vigilant every minute, watching and checking events as they are happening around us at the present time, and the effects of many of the so-called transitory policies, which may have an influence on the future of the American trade union movement as we have known it.

It is important for all of us, and especially for our leaders to be on the fighting line at all times. By this we mean that we must be militant. A well thoughtout, militant policy is the only way in which to protect the labor movement from the screwballs and the crackpots who are now using it as a testing ground to try out their political philosophies and ideologies.

We have come a long way since the last war. Organized labor has seen some pretty tough times since then. However, there is no question but that most of our organizations have really prospered and are in good condition, as far as finances and membership are concerned.

But, is a strong, healthy financial and numerical condition the only thing of importance? Or should some thought be given by the leaders of the trade union movement to the fact that the future of our type of labor organization in this country may be at stake? We believe it is important to all that a review of this situation be made.

All we have to do is look back just a few short years and we can see what has happened to the labor movements in those countries across the sea. They were taken over by political manipulators for their own pet experiments and selfish aims. At the present time labor in those countries is in chains. However, only a short time ago the labor movements abroad were held up by many in the American trade union movement as patterns and blueprints for the American Federation of Labor to follow. We have much to be thankful for.

Labor is now confronted with an extremely difficult situation. Committees of all kinds have been set up all over this country by the officials of our government; regional directors for this agency and regional directors for that agency of the federal government which have been brought into being because the country is at war. In some places throughout the United States interpretations of orders and regulations affecting labor which have been sent out by government agencies in Washington, are being made by people in the field who are unfamiliar with the problems of American labor,

Published by AsbestosClaims.Law

and in many cases by people who are antagonistic to the principles and philosophies of the A. F. of L.

The American Federation of Labor can proudly look back upon its accomplishments, especially during the days of its great leader, the late Samuel Gompers, who is still admired and respected for those qualities which attributed to the success of the A. F. of L. Organized labor has made progress and has set a record for every nation in the world to point at, as far as wages, hours, living and working conditions are concerned. These standards were made and maintained by a militant labor movement.

Trade union organizations have in their folds outstanding men and women who believe in the traditional policy of a free, energetic trade union organization for this country. We point with pride to many of our past labor leaders and honor them for the accomplishments made by organized labor under their leadership and guidance.

When the American Federation of Labor was created the going was hard and tough for the working people of this country; but men and women of the trade union movement were willing and eager then to make sacrifices for their organizations and they did make them. The same should be true today if we are to maintain the high standards set by the pioneers of our trade union movement.

Those pioneers saw the necessity of not only being members, but of being apostles for their organizations. They worked, lived and preached the philosophies of a free trade union movement, which has placed the United States of America in the forefront as a land in which free labor can continue to live and work, because we still have a free trade union movement here.

Present conditions and trends sometimes make us wonder if labor is at the crossroads. It seems to us that because of the activities of many bureaucrats in government agencies with their directives and regulations, organized labor is losing caste and we deplore this situation. Organized labor has friends in the federal government. Organized labor has friends in our major political parties. But if we are going to preserve the trade union labor movement as it was originally set up, we must be careful of entanglements. When we say entanglements we do not mean foreign entanglements, although that is also a danger. We mean that we should be careful not to become entangled in philosophies and ideologies which are not part of the trade union movement.

If we are not careful we will wake up some day and find that we are being manipulated and used as a front to bring about the so-called Utopia now in the minds of some of the phonies who are clinging like leeches to the labor movement.

The question of whether or not this is a transitory period is one about which we wonder. Will it be reflected in such a way that there will be no future for the legitimate trade unionist because we have become soft, smug and complacent and have become too dependent upon government gratuities? Remember that what politicians give they can very easily take away. We must keep uppermost in our minds that we have a free, militant labor movement in this country for the protection of the men and women whom we represent.

We know it is almost a physical impossibility for many of us regularly to attend meetings of our local unions, and central bodies, because of the war emergency. However, there should be a way for the real trade unionist who believes in the policies of the American Federation of Labor and his own international organization to do some real work—the kind of work which was done by the pioneers of our labor movement. We need that pioneering spirit today as much as we have ever needed it and that is the only kind of spirit which is going to help protect and preserve the American trade union movement.

We believe that we are all called upon now to make many sacrifices in the interests of the labor movement which we represent, and in which we sincerely and wholeheartedly believe.

As trade unionists we have a duty to our country in this war crisis. We must do everything possible to assist our government in winning this war. We also have a responsibility to our loved ones, to our homes, to our country and to our labor organizations to be watchful and on guard at all times to see that during this war hysteria our traditional labor standards are preserved and safeguarded, not only in the interests of the many thousands of brave trade unionists who are now overseas fighting on the far-flung battlefields of the world, but also in the interests of the workers and their families when this war is over.

It is our duty to see that conditions and standards are maintained and then when our soldiers come home they will come home to enjoy the standards which have been set up and maintained by the watchfulness and the militancy of the American Federation of Labor.

—Metal Trades Bulletin.

THREE THINGS WE ALL WANT

A soldier home from Guadalcanal was asked: "What do the boys out there want? He said: "They want three things: (1) to win this war; (2) a job when they come home; (3) no more wars.

When this war is won, we shall find that the second and third objectives express the desires of working people everywhere in the world. People of all nations can unite on a program to give jobs to all, raise living standards and prevent future wars. How can these things be accomplished?

For us in America, if there are to be jobs after the war for the boys now in service and the millions released from war work, the living conditions of our masses must be maintained unimpaired and continue to improve. If the 130 million souls in our country will be well fed, clothed and housed, we shall have to produce enough consumer goods to supply jobs to nearly every employable man or woman. Such a production program is bound to absorb, to a large degree, the mass of unemployed which marred so tragically our industrial picture before the war.

Another factor must be considered in answering this question. Our industries are geared to a world market. Our factories must ship peacetime goods to foreign countries all over the globe, as we are today shipping war goods. Other countries need our products. In China, India, the Balkan countries, many parts of South America and elsewhere, hundreds of millions of people are living in poverty today because they are almost totally without the modern industrial machinery needed to produce a decent living standard. America and other industrial countries can supply them with machinery and other goods, while they supply us in return with raw materials. This exchange can create jobs and raise living conditions everywhere in the world.

WAR CONTRACTORS WRITING OWN TICKET

"The country is in the grip of the cost-plus-fixed-fee contractor. He is writing his own ticket, and he is getting what he writes."

That startling statement was made by Lindsay C. Warren, comptroller general, in testimony before the House Civil Service Committee. It was of more than usual significance because it is Warren's job to audit the accounts of government departments and keep Congress informed of how the money it appropriates is being spent.

The comptroller general is appointed by the President for a 15-year term, but is responsible only to Congress. He can be removed only by a joint resolution or through impeachment proceedings. This frees him completely of executive control.

Warren has held his job for two and a half years. Before that he was for years a member of the House from North Carolina and put through the government reorganization program advocated by President Roosevelt early in his administration.

It was a picture of "unbridled waste and extravagance" that Warren painted for the committee.

"Under the gentle guise of war," he said, "the word 'economy' has been deleted from the dictionary. Ordinary prudence and thrift in the expenditure of the people's money has gone out of the window."

A great deal of the waste, Warren argued, is traceable to the employment of business men, many on a dollar-a-year basis, who are looking out for the interests of their former employers. Asked by committee members whether he regards these officials as honest, Warren said:

"Thousands of people are down here in government from private business. Sometimes the contracting officials for the government are either nit-wits —or else."

Warren said that in the Maritime Commission and in the War and Navy Departments he "found too much sympathy for the people with whom the government is doing business and not enough sympathy for the taxpayer."

One of the striking assertions of Warren was that of innumerable government departments, agencies and bureaus, only three are operated on a business-like basis, but he declined to identify them. With others, he said, "it is a hit-or-miss affair."

—The Plasterer and Cement Finisher.

(Abolishing the cost-plus-fixed-fee system in favor of the old fashioned lump-sum contract policy under competitive bidding would eliminate this alleged waste.—Editor.)

ity in trying to find the way by which every man who enlisted in the service of the nation may find an opportunity to resume his normal life, to live in the American way, working and serving his family and society and the nation as well.

I have spoken in response to your address, Mr. Commander, in a sincere and honest way. I have spoken to you in the kindliest manner. I want you to get our point of view. It is my wish that we may all see this situation as it is. Perhaps when Gabriel blows his trumpet in the morning and the dead shall rise from the earth, and those who are living shall be assembled as Holy Writ tells us, for the purpose of ascending into Heaven we may then construct a perfect world out of imperfect material. But until then, Mr. Commander, we must deal with the imperfections of human nature and serve as best we can.

MINUTES OF MEETING OF NEW ENGLAND STATES CONFERENCE OF ASBESTOS WORKERS

Boston, Mass., October 2, 1943.

The quarterly meeting of the New England States Conference of Asbestos Workers was held Saturday, October 2, 1943, at Local No. 6 office, 40 Causeway Street, Boston, Mass.

Delegates present were International Vice-President John W. Hoff and Richard Lindstrom, Local No. 6, Boston, Mass.; Ernest Carlson, Edwin Olson and George Schoder, Local No. 31, Providence, R. I.; James Dunn and Charles Hill, Local No. 43, Springfield, Mass., and John A. Gaspic, Local No. 33, Connecticut.

International President Joseph A. Mullaney and Secretary-Treasurer C. W. Sickles were also in attendance.

Meeting was called to order by International Vice-President John W. Hoff, Chairman, pro tem., at 10:30 A. M.

Messrs. Walter Swanson, Sr., and Nelson B. Swanson of the Rhode Island Covering Company, Providence, R. I., appeared before the Conference and presented varied complaints against Local No. 31. Questions on emergency mechanics and improvers, their source of supply and ratio of improvers to mechanics were gone into at great length. President Mullaney interpreted same for the Messrs. Swanson and instructed Local No. 31 delegates on course of action with the issues involved. President Mullaney closed the matter requesting closer cooperation between the Local and the Shop on all matters pertaining to the craft.

Minutes of previous meeting held June 26, 1943, Hotel Biltmore, Providence, R. I., were approved as read.

Resignation of Conference President Anton Sevelius was read and accepted.

Communications were read and ordered placed on file.

Nominations for Conference President were then placed in order. Business Agent Ernest Carlson, Local No. 31, was nominated and elected President.

President Carlson then resigned from the office of Vice-President. Business Agent James Dunn, Local No. 43, was nominated and elected to office.

President Carlson took the Chair and called for Local reports.

Business Agent Dunn, Local No. 43, reported business good and future good. Local membership has decreased with the loss of one member on a Transfer and others to the U. S. Forces. Local now has but 9 Permit men on.

He then advised that the Local's existing Joint Trade Agreement expires October 31st and his questions on possible wage or board increases were answered by Secretary Sickles.

He then brought forward the question of accepting for Improver membership, applicants over 30 years of age. Secretary Sickles advised that the General Executive Board had already advanced the age limit, for the duration, and he, personally, could not make any exceptions contrary to International by-law.

Business Agent Hoff, Local No. 6, reported that where the quarter ending in June had got off to a bad start with wages incorrectly predetermined in his territory, this past period saw no questions raised as wages were paid as stated in the Agreement, on all work.

Published by AsbestosClaims.Law
asbestosclaims.law/library/21457/26

He reported business as very good, with plenty of work now and in the future. Bulk of the work is in shipyards, for which a demand for more men is still on. On this work the Local is working under the terms of the Building and Construction Trades Stabilization Agreement.

He now has Providence and Springfield membership working on Traveling Cards, together with the many allied building tradesmen he has had all along.

He closed his report enumerating the many jobs now in progress and in need of additional help.

Business Agent Gaspic, Local No. 33, reported work about normal since the last meeting. About 50 per cent of the membership working any overtime. Local now has but three members on Traveling Cards. Had used only a few Permit men during the past quarter and starting the new quarter without any outside help whatsoever. Prospects for the future are fair.

He closed report enumerating the jobs on hand and those expected.

Business Agent Carlson, Local No. 31, reported business as very good. Had a letup the first two months of last quarter, but business picked right up this past month. Lack of material was main reason for the letup. He placed some of his members with our Local No. 6, on Traveling Cards, during the lull. He now has some 30 allied building tradesmen and upholsterers working under Permit.

He closed report enumerating the various Government Projects in the territory and advised of some marine work they too are doing under terms of the Stabilization Agreement.

President Mullaney and Secretary Sickles were called upon frequently during the meeting to give advice and counsel. They interspersed their comments with stories of activities in Washington and Locals throughout the country when confronted with the subjects under discussion.

With no further business, meeting was adjourned at 2:15 P. M. and delegates to dinner as guests of Local No. 6.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN A. GASPIC,
Secretary.

Hendricks, of Local No. 96, Savannah, Ga.

We were also honored by the attendance of General President Joseph A. Mullaney and General Secretary-Treasurer C. W. Sickles.

Locals not represented: Local No. 13, Jacksonville, Fla.; Local No. 60, Miami, Fla.; Local No. 61, Charlotte, N. C.; Local No. 77, Charleston, S. C.; Local No. 86, Nashville, Tenn., and Local No. 92, Columbia, S. C.

Bills were read and upon motion were ordered paid.

The minutes of the last regular meeting upon motion were ordered approved.

Delegate H. W. Woody, Local No. 46, Knoxville, Tenn., reported work is still progressing at a brisk pace. All members working, about 300 plasterers busy, too. Future work very bright.

Delegate H. M. Hoffman, Local No. 48, Atlanta, Ga., reported all members working, a few travelers and 15 plasterers. Most all jobs have from 5 to 20 hours overtime per week. Future work just fair.

Delegate L. A. Walcutt, Local No. 67, Tampa, Fla., reports all members and some travelers also 50 plasterers working, need more travelers. Future conditions look good with plenty of work.

Delegate E. C. Walters, Local No. 72, Greensboro, N. C., reports very little work. Most members on travelers. Future work fair. Also with the help of the plasterers a lot of work had been let to fair union contractors.

Delegate Wm. Howell, Local No. 78, Birmingham, Ala., reports all members working plus some travelers and 90 plasterers. Work looks very good so far.

Delegate Jake Smith, Local No. 90, Memphis, Tenn., reports work very slow. Future looks fair.

Delegates J. E. Henry and T. F. Davis, Local No. 96, Savannah, Ga., report that all members, some travelers and 43 plasterers working, with future work very good.

President Mullaney and Secretary-Treasurer C. W. Sickles gave all Delegates a lot of good advice as each Delegate reported for the Local he represented. They also made it very understandable to stay clear of anything that is underhanded and make all of our dealings as square as possible. We hope that our International Officers enjoyed being with us as much as we enjoyed having them and look forward with pleasure to their next visit.

The Delegates present would like very much to have absent Delegates share the advice and the good will that we all obtain at the Conference meetings. Don't miss our next meeting to be held in Atlanta, Ga., the second Saturday, December 11, 1943, at 2 P. M.

While at the Conference Table the Delegates and Visitors enjoyed a Grand Dinner tendered them by Local No. 46.

The business of the Conference having been completed the meeting adjourned at 12:45 A. M.

Respectfully submitted,

H. M. HOFFMAN,
Secretary.

HERE IS WHERE THEY SMOKED 'EM

Sgt. Philip Cohen, wounded in Africa, now convalescing in the U.S.A., points out to Matthew Woll, President of the Labor League for Human Rights (A. F. of L.) where the free cigarettes reached our fighting forces while under fire. Sgt. Cohen is a member of the Cloak and Dress Drivers' Union No. 102.

Our General Office has received many letters of thanks from our boys "Over There" for the cigarettes they have received from our International membership. Keep 'em Flying.
