Some Facts About

YOUR cover picture shows the scenic beauty of Mt. Cannon, Glacier National Park, in the wintertime. The park, in the Rocky Mountains of northwestern Montana, is an area of stern grandeur, with rough and titanic peaks and picturesque valleys telling an interesting geologic story.

Its glaciers are among the few in the United States which are easily accessible. The park is part of the National Park System owned by the people of the United States and administered by the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior. It is one of a group of 28 areas in the System know simply as national parks, usually of considerable extent and possessing outstanding scenery and wilderness characteristics.

In the national parks the scenery, the wildfire, and the objects of historic, prehistoric, and scientific interest are carefully preserved and displayed for the benefit of the public. Glacier National Park was created by Act of Congress in May, 1910, and comprises some 997,487 acres. Among its high peaks are more than 60 glaciers and 200 beautiful lakes. In the summer months it is possible to visit some of the glaciers and most of the lakes with relatively little difficulty. Horseback and foot trails reach almost all sections of the park, and, while no glaciers are accessible by road, many of them are readily reached by trail.

Directly to the north over the Canadian border is the Waterton Lakes National Park in Canada. In 1932, under authorization of both the Congress of the United States and the Canadian Parliament, the Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park (comprising both already existing parks) was established as a further gesture of the good will that has so long blessed our relations with our Canadian neighbors.

Published quarterly at Headquarters, 211 Machinists Building, Washington 1, D. C., by the International Association of Heat and Frost Insulators and Asbestos Workers. Entered as second class matter at Washington, D. C., June 28, 1934, under the Act of August 24, 1912.

Report of the GENERAL PRESIDENT

JOSEPH A. MULLANEY
General President

WASHINGTON, D. C
January 7, 1953

To the Officers and Membership,
Affiliated Locals.

GREETINGS:

Continuing my report as outlined in the October JOURNAL, after my attendance at the Building and Construction Trades Department Convention in New York City, which was followed by the convention of the American Federation of Labor in the same city, your President represented our locals in New York State affiliated with the State Federation of Labor at a meeting in Albany where a program on resolutions to be entered into next year's legislative program was decided upon.

Then came a meeting of Local 32 with President Rider of Local 12.

Next with Secretary Sickles came the hearing, Asbestos Workers versus Bricklayers, before the National Joint Board for Settlement of Jurisdictional Disputes.

Then came Syracuse where a meeting was held with President Westlake and Business Agent Nicols of Toronto, followed the next day by the meeting of the New York State Conference of Asbestos Workers.

With the passing of the last year, there also passed one of the greatest labor leaders our country ever produced. May Bill Green rest in peace.

George Meany, as no doubt you know, is now President of the American Federation of Labor. He is a New York plumber. Secretary of the A. F. of L. is William F. Schnitzler, President of Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America.

Martin P. Durkin is now Secretary of Labor. He is a steamfitter from the South Side of Chicago. He is a close personal friend of Vice President Mulligan. The Acting President of the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry is Peter Schoemann of Milwaukee.

Work is still with us. Happy New Year to all!

Fraternally,

Joseph A. Mullaney

President.

President Green Is Dead

William Green of Ohio, president of the American Federation of Labor, 1924-1952.

THERE is sadness in the land. There is sadness in America and in distant countries, wherever men toil for their bread and cherish liberty.

For William Green is dead. Bill Green, the beloved president of the American Federation of Labor, the man who devoted his life to fighting for justice for working people and against every form of tyranny and oppression, is dead—and millions, at home and abroad, mourn his passing. For they know that they have lost a very good friend—a great leader of labor, yes, but also a kindly, simple, decent human being who exemplified democracy at its best.

Two U. A. Men To The Top

- George Meany New AFL President
- Martin P. Durkin Named Secretary of Labor

GEORGE MEANY MARTIN P. DURKIN

George Meany, a 58-year-old member of the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry, is now President of the American Federation of Labor. President Meany was elected to his post a few days after the passing of William Green, Federation President since 1924.

Brother Meany has been AFL Secretary-Treasurer since 1939, and his demonstrated abilities won him reelection to the post year after year.

George Meany rose to his present role of leadership in labor affairs through energy, ability, courage and exceptional foresight. He is New York born, the son of a plumber, and went into that industry to learn his trade. He was a journeyman at 21 and he rose steadily in his union and in the New York labor movement until in 1934 he was elected President of the New York State Federation of Labor.

As President of this body, he helped put across more pro-labor legislation in the State of New York than in all of that legislature's previous history. A courageous and effective speaker, Brother Meany has always stood up to any issue, regardless of its difficulty. He has been one of the most vigorous opponents of the Taft-Hartley Act, and he has long been known as one of labor's most articulate opponents of Communism. He has worked diligently both on the domestic and international fronts against dangerous leftism.

President Meany has served on many Government bodies and commissions, and has a very enviable international reputation. He is the fourth man to head the Federation.

Martin P. Durkin, General President of the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe Fitting Industry, has been chosen by President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower to be the Secretary of Labor in the new administration. Martin Durkin is a man who really knows labor and is highly respected for his proven ability.

Trade unionists throughout the nation hailed the appointment. Organized labor was pleased because the naming of Martin Durkin as Secretary of Labor-designate was in accord with labor's belief that the head of the United States Department of Labor should be an experienced labor man, in the same way that Secretaries of Commerce are drawn from business and Secretaries of Agriculture from agriculture.

In hailing the appointment, AFL President Meany said: "He is ideally fitted by training, experience, ability and temperament for his new post. His appointment will inspire confidence among the ranks of organized labor. . . ."

Martin Durkin is an able and experienced administrator. He is a thoughtful, quiet-spoken, judicious man. As Director of Labor in Illinois prior to his election as General Secretary-Treasurer and General President of his international union, he promoted the passage of legislation needed for the protection of the health and welfare of working people. He also activated the state's conciliation and mediation services so that most industrial disputes in Illinois during his time in office were settled peacefully.

William F. Schnitzler Is New AFL Secretary-Treasurer

The unanimous choice of the Executive Council for the office of AFL Secretary-Treasurer was William F. Schnitzler, President of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union.

Brother Schnitzler is 48 years of age and has won national attention as a vigorous and effective labor spokesman and executive.

The office of Secretary-Treasurer had to be filled because of the election of George Meany as the new President of the AFL. Brother Schnitzler assumed his duties on January 1st of this year.

Born the son of a metal polisher in Newark, N. J., Bill Schnitzler was educated in the public schools of that city. At the age of 16 he started his apprenticeship in the bakery trade and four years later was accepted into membership in Local 84 of the Bakery Workers.

Ten years later he was elected Business Agent of the local. He built Local 84 into a strong organization, and he also gave valuable help to other affiliates of the AFL during a period when New Jersey employers were fighting organized labor with injunctions, thugs and company unions.

In 1937, Brother Schnitzler became an International Representative, and in 1942 he was named General Representative. Through ability and his practical knowledge of trade union problems, he climbed the ladder of leadership in the Bakery Workers union to successively fill the posts of Second Vice President and Financial Secretary, General Secretary-Treasurer and International President.

William Schnitzler is a man of principle and highest integrity. His election to his new post is being applauded throughout the labor movement. His past record has been truly outstanding, and he will surely make a great Secretary-Treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, serving the cause of labor with enthusiasm and efficiency by the side of AFL President George Meany.

William F. Schnitzler assumed his new post of AFL Secretary-Treasurer on January 1.

He Asked Permission to Stay

Major William E. Barber, USMC
Medal of Honor

F09124

IT WAS DURING the Chosin Reservoir withdrawal. Eight thousand weary marines lay besieged at Yudam-ni: three thousand more were at Hagaru-ri, preparing a breakthrough to the sea. Guarding a frozen mountain pass between them, Major Barber, with only a company, held their fate in his hands. Encirclement threatened him; he was ordered to withdraw. But he asked permission to stay, and for five zero-cold days the company held the pass against attack. The Major, badly wounded, was carried about on a stretcher to direct defense. When relief came, only eighty-four men could walk away. But Major Barber's action had been decisive in saving a division.

"I know," says Major Barber, "that you at home realize what hard jobs our sons and brothers are doing in America's armed forces. Maybe you haven't realized that you're helping those men—whenever you invest in Bonds. True, Bonds are personal financial security for you. But they also strengthen our economy—to produce the good arms and food and medical care that make our men secure."

Peace is for the strong!
For Peace and Prosperity save with U. S. Defense Bonds!

Now E Bonds pay 3%! Now, improved Series E Bonds start paying interest after 6 months. And average 3% interest, compounded semiannually when held to maturity! Also, all maturing E Bonds automatically go on earning—at the new rate—for 10 more years. $18.75 can pay back $33.67. $37.50 pays $67.34. And so on. Today, start investing in U. S. Series E Defense Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan at work.

George Meany Talks To Press

AFL President George Meany scored a hit in his debut before the nation's newsmen with a hardhitting speech before the National Press Club in Washington, D. C. His bold approach to labor's outstanding problems aroused so much comment that we present herewith some of the highlights of his remarks.

In the months ahead the workers of America face a most trying situation. These are pretty tense days. We don't know just what's going to happen on the world scene. We do know that we've got to have unity here at home.

Our nation is the leading nation of the free world. And as such, we are the target—and the prime target —of those who would destroy the free world.

In that situation the prime responsibility of every American is to discharge his duty as a citizen before any other duty or obligation which may come his way. That's our philosophy. However, in carrying out that responsibility as citizens we're not going to neglect the prime objective for which a trade union is founded—to get for its members, to get for the workers, a fair share of the things that they produce.

I had a talk with Gen. Eisenhower and we discussed many angles of this national picture. And I made it quite clear to him that we were not going to be pushed backward if we could help it, that it would not do the country any good if the labor movement were pushed back, because you can't hurt the labor movement without hurting America.

It is a stark naked fact that the high standard of life that we as Americans like to boast of is directly traceable to the activities of the trade unions in this country over the last 75 years.

And I say to you here today that, yes, America is a wealthy country, but its wealth can only be measured by the welfare and the standards of life of its citizens. And to whatever extent America leads the world in that respect, to that extent at least the American labor movement must receive credit as making its contribution to the American way of life.

Now, the problems we face in the days ahead fall into two categories. One, of course, and the over-all problem, is meeting the threat from overseas, the threat of world domination which we face from the Kremlin.

The second problem is to keep America's economy in such shape that it can produce the things we need to be militarily strong and to keep our Allies militarily strong, and at the same time keep the standard of life in this country as high as it's possible to keep it so that the people on the home front can make their contribution to the great cause of human freedom.

There's a great deal of talk about what the election meant to the membership of the American Federation of Labor. All I can say to you is that the election was yesterday. We didn't go in business to win elections —we go into elections and go into politics only to the extent that we think it is necessary in order to carry out our prime objective of raising the standard of life and of work of the workers of this nation.

In this last election we didn't do too well. The fellow we supported—and I say right here and now I was proud to support him—he lost. So now we've to go on. We are not a party of loyal opposition.

We are not committed to any party.

I think it's all right for the major party that is defeated, to line itself up as a party of loyal opposition.

Be that as it may, that does not apply to the American Federation of Labor. We are not the party of loyal opposition. We are not thinking in terms of politics until an election rolls around. We are now back at our job—our job of seeing to it that the workers of America get a fair deal, get a fair share of the things that they produce, and that we keep America as a country where unions can exist.

I expect under those circumstances to work in every possible way with the new administration, to do everything I can to help the General carry out his prime job of keeping this country safe and secure and keeping peace in the world. I expect to talk to anybody and everybody in the administration with whom it's necessary for me to talk in order that we can meet the problems that are presented to the workers of the nation.

And I want to say to you here quite frankly that under those circumstances no matter what some of the old-timers in the Republican Party may expect, I do not expect a crackdown on labor from the Eisenhower administration. I expect that the General will work with us in as fair a manner as he knows how and I am completely confident that he meant what he said in his campaign —that he expected to be fair to the workers of the nation as well as to all of the other people of the nation.

I am ready to talk to Congressional leaders, including Senator Taft, including Chairman McConnell of the House Labor Committee, or any other member of either party who has any interest or who can be helpful in the legislative program which we will bring into the next Congress. We're going to try to amend Taft-Hartley—we're going to see what we can do to improve it and make it more acceptable to the workers of the nation.

Now, there's another topic I want to talk to you about and that's the work of the American Federation of Labor in the international labor field.

We have a tremendous interest in seeing to it that there are free trade unions in every country in the world where it's possible to have them. Because in every country of the world where there are free trade unions, there must be some semblance of democracy.

I've given you just the barest outline of some of the things that we look forward to. We look forward to cooperation with and are ready to give cooperation to the new administration. We look forward to political action when the time comes for political action.

Yet, we are not changing our principles or policies upon which our organization is founded. We are still in business to raise the standards of life of the American worker and his family. We expect to cooperate in the international field. We're looking forward to that. And as far as you gentlemen are concerned —for myself personally I'm looking forward to a few kind words.

Roche and Terence McConnell; Local No. 42, Wilmington, Del., Harry Mahan and Francis Wardell; Local No. 65, York, Pa., Alfred K. Gotwalt and Richard Liek; Local No. 71, Allentown, Pa., Nicholas Grello; Local No. 88, Richmond, Va., Francis Joinville and John Collins; Local No. 89, Trenton, N. J., Stephen J. Kopp; representing the General Office was International President Joseph A. Mullaney. Communications from International Secretary-Treasurer C. W. Sickles and also Brother Herbert Bressler of Local No. 38, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, Pa., were received stating that personal illness was preventing their attendance.

A round table discussion on reciprocal welfare was then held and as a result Chairman Roche appointed the following committee to conduct a study of same and report their findings at our next meeting: Brothers Norman Hoyle, George Jakob, Stephen J. Kopp, Terence McConnell, Charles W. Moore, Harry E. Mahan, Francis Joinville and Fred E. Rust, with Carlton Sickles to act as counsel.

Delegates submitted the following reports:

Delegate Moore of Local No. 11 reported present conditions still good with 150 Emergency Asbestos Workers still being employed. Maritime work at Sparrows Point, Md., still predominates. The Gas and Electric Power House job will soon be in readiness for our craft as also will expansion at Camp Dietrich. With all types of work coming up, the future looks very good.

Delegate Jakob of Local No. 14 reported present conditions quite busy with 60 Emergency Asbestos Workers augmenting local membership. Included in future developments is more power house work, oil refinery expansion and also several schools. He also reported that jurisdictional disputes, especially with the Bricklayers on boiler construction insulation, are becoming quite a problem in the territory. Furthering his reports, Brother Jakob advised of a supplemental decision by CISC on the $6.00 per day worked subsistence rate, same now being made retroactive to July 1, 1952, also that Local No. 14 has 10 of its membership in service.

Delegate Norman Hoyle of Local No. 24 reported that a slow period was being experienced at the present time, mainly due to a steel shortage. Majority of present work now going on is of the small type. The forthcoming year is expected to again increase the volume of work in the area to which the local is accustomed and barring unforeseen developments, a good year is looked forward to. He also spoke briefly on labor difficulties experienced in that portion of the State of Virginia over which the local has jurisdiction.

Delegate James A. Roche of Local No. 32 reported present conditions as being very busy with 35 travelers in and 150 Emergency Asbestos Workers also being used. Most of the work in the future is of the industrial type and the volume coming along tends to make the outlook very good. He also reported that International President Joseph A. Mullaney attended the last meeting of Local No. 32 and gave the membership an interesting and informative discourse on craft problems and conditions, which was well received by those in attendance.

Delegate Mahan of Local No. 42 reported a tapering off period is being experienced at the present time. A few of the local membership are now out of town. However, with a laboratory, schools and hospital jobs coming along, conditions shall soon return to normal for local membership and keep future outlook good.

Delegate Gotwalt of Local No. 65 reported present conditions very good. All of local membership, plus 20 Emergency Asbestos Workers, now employed. Plenty more work, including boarding jobs, is coming along in the future to keep conditions exceedingly bright. A good size expansion at Camp Ritchie is also soon to be ready for our craft.

Delegate Grello of Local No. 71 reported all of membership, plus 25 Emergency Asbestos Workers, now being employed throughout the territory. Plenty of work will be forthcoming to keep conditions along this plane. He also reported that as yet none of membership has been called into the Armed Services.

Delegate Joinville of Local No. 88 reported present conditions very good. All of local membership at work together with 65 Emergency Asbestos Workers. Industrial expansion comprises bulk of future work. Listed in this category is a $25,000,000 paper mill, Dupont and Allied Chemical expansion programs. He also expressed disappointment that no modification in the labor laws of the State of Virginia was enacted during last session of State Legislature.

Delegate Kopp of Local No. 89 reported present conditions being best since establishment of the local. The U. S. Steel job at Morrisville is now moving along at a brisk pace. The naval laboratory job is slowly nearing readiness for our craft and cantonment expansion at Fort Dix and Maguire Air Force Base is also moving along, tending to give the future a very bright outlook. He also reported having had a jurisdictional dispute with the boilermaker over the use of the Nelson stud gun. This was overcome with the help of the General Office and our craft is proceeding with the work. He furthered his report by advising receipt of a supplemental decision on subsistence from CISC, making the subsistence rate of $6.00 per day worked retroactive to July 1, 1952.

Following the delegates' reports, President Mullaney gave an interesting talk to the delegates on craft problems, stressing particularly the jurisdictional disputes and also the Taft-Hartley law and its ramifications to organized labor. He also extended the Season's Greetings to the delegates and their respective membership and wished them continued success.

The annual nomination and election of Conference officers was then held.

Since this conference meeting Brother Tennity also wishes to report the death of Brother George Abel, Reg. No. 9029, a charter member of Local No. 26 who served with the tools for the last 40 years. The death of this brother was deeply felt by the membership of Local No. 26 and the sister locals throughout the country.

Delegate McCormick of Local No. 30, Syracuse, N. Y., reported that the territory is busy at present and could use travelers. This condition is expected to continue until late winter. Prospects for the future look fair. Two men in the Armed Services.

Construction Outlook For 1953

New construction activity in 1953 is expected to reach a new peak, perhaps rising about $1 billion over the $32⅛ billion apparent for 1952, according to outlook estimates prepared jointly by the U. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics and the Building Materials Division of the U. S. Department of Commerce. Some expansion is likely in the coming year in both private and public construction.

The outlook for record construction activity in 1953 assumes that business will remain good, buoyed in part by increasing defense expenditures, at least in the early part of the year. Barring major international developments in 1953, it was assumed also that materials would be plentiful, that the limited controls in force would not interrupt construction operations, that the labor supply would be adequate, and that costs would remain relatively stable.

A peak of $22.2 billion in 1953 expenditures for new private construction is anticipated, supported by a continuing high level of housing activity and expansion in public utility plant and commercial building.

About as many private dwelling units are expected to be started next year as in 1952, when the million-unit mark will again be exceeded. Expenditures for new private housing actually put in place, however, at $10.2 billion, will be somewhat greater than in 1952, because next year will begin with a larger number of units already under way, as the unseasonally large numbers of dwellings begun this fall are completed. Prediction of an active homebuilding year is based primarily on the anticipated favorable economic climate and ready availability of mortgage funds.

Next year is expected to be the tenth in succession of increasing construction activity by the public

announced expansion goals unprecedented expenditures 4½ billion in 1953. Most per cent rise in volume will occur in the gas and ght and power group for extensive backlog of both and domestic need exists. real building activity will jump by over a fourth in tinuing the recovery evi- cent months as a result of materials availability and of credit controls. On the d, private industrial build- pected to drop by about the portion, from this year's tlay of about $2¼ billion, e plant expansion programs completion.

Although 1953 will be another active defense year, the anticipated rise in total public expenditures for new construction, from $10.6 to $11.3 billion, is expected to result as much from increasing activity on civilian as on military types of public work. Highway construction will probably reach a new high of $3 billion next year, or nearly 10 per cent above this year's level, reflecting the expanding program of Federal aid to highway building, and an anticipated large volume of State tollroad construction. Ground has already been broken for the $300 million Ohio Turnpike project, and work is proceeding rapidly on the $500 million N. Y. State Thruway.

On the military side, outlays for military and naval facilities will probably rise about one-fifth to around $1.6 billion, as considerable new work gets under way, much of it already under contract, and as the extensive current program is completed. A much more moderate rise (3 per cent) will occur in public industrial construction resulting entirely from additions to existing atomic energy facilities and commencement of the huge atomic plant near Portsmouth, Ohio. Industrial facilities construction for the Army, Navy, and Air Force, mostly the rehabilitation of existing ordnance plants, will be substantially completed during 1953.

Public residential building will drop from this year's level, reflecting the tightened statutory limitation on the start of new Federally subsidized housing units. Virtual completion of the Veterans Administration program of hospital construction and reduced funds for the program of Federal aid to State and local hospitals will cause a substantial decline in the rate of publicly-aided hospital building.
